RIGHTS & ROLES BOOK

Sometimes kids are hurt when a grown-up does something wrong and breaks the rules, or a kid might see or hear someone else being hurt. When that happens, kids might be asked to talk to different grown-ups about it. These grown-ups are part of something called the criminal legal system. This book will help you understand who they are and what they do to make sure kids and families are safe.

Things like this happen to other Native and non-Native kids and families, too. But every situation is different. In some cases, a kid might go to court to share what they remember, but other times, kids talk to a doctor, police officer, or lawyer about what happened instead.

No matter what is happening for you, please remember that none of this is your fault and you are not alone. You can ask for help from the grown-ups working with you, like the ones in this book or in Marvis' story, or other grown-ups in your family or community that you trust.

WHAT IS THEIR JOB?

ROLES IN THE CRIMINAL LEGAL SYSTEM

In this section you will learn about the jobs of the different grown-ups you might meet.

These grown-ups may be from your tribe, from another tribe, or work for the local, state, or federal government.

You will find out what your job is, too!

POLICE

A police officer's job is to help keep people safe. They might ask you questions to help them learn about what happened. Some police officers wear a uniform, but others wear regular clothes.

VICTIM ADVOCATE

This person's job is to help you and your family, and to answer questions about going to court. Ask them any questions you have!

DEFENDANT

This person may have done something wrong or broken the rules. Some of the grown-ups have the job of figuring out what happened.

JUDGE

The judge's job is to listen to everyone and then make decisions in the court.

JURY

The jury listens to all of the information that's shared in court and decides whether or not the information shows that the defendant did something wrong.

PROSECUTOR

If a grown-up broke the rules or hurt another person, the prosecutor tries to learn about what happened by asking questions and talking with the people who might have seen or heard about it. The prosecutor also talks in court about what happened and ways to keep everyone safe.

DEFENSE ATTORNEY/LAY ADVOCATE

This person's job is to help the person called the defendant. They will ask for what the defendant wants and make sure they are treated fairly in court.

BAILIFF/COURT SECURITY

This person tries to make sure everyone in the court is safe.

COURT REPORTER

The court reporter's job is to write down everything people say in the courtroom. They type what everyone says very fast.

SOCIAL WORKER/THERAPIST

Social workers help children and families with hard things that are going on in their lives. Some work in the prosecutor's office, where they can go with you to meetings, answer your questions, and help with feeling safe and getting other things you need. And some social workers work as therapists, providing counseling to children and their families.

VICTIM

A victim is someone who was hurt when another person did something wrong or broke a rule.

WITNESS

A witness is someone who saw or heard another person doing something wrong or breaking a rule.

YOU

Your job is to talk to the grown-ups about what you saw, heard and remember about what happened.

Going to Court DID YOU KNOW?

...that when you go to court, there are people who work in the courthouse and they are there to help you.

You are allowed to ask as many questions as you want! If you don't know what's going on, ask!

If you have a special toy or something else small that makes you feel happy, you can bring that with you to court.

You should always feel safe. If you feel scared, tell a grown-up that you trust. You can also ask them questions to help you understand what's happening.

The Courtroom

Many of these people you just read about work in the court. At some point, you might have to go to court, too. It can help to understand who will be there and where they will be sitting. Ask your advocate or one of the adults working with you on your case to show you using the drawing below.
