

DARYL FOX: Good afternoon, everyone and welcome to today's webinar, "Office for Victims of Crime FY 2023: Peer-to-Peer Support for Survivors of Crime," hosted by the Office for Victims of Crime. At this time, it's my pleasure to introduce Doresa Payton, Grants Management Specialist with the Office for Victims of Crime, for welcoming remarks and to begin the presentation. Doresa?

DORESA PAYTON: Good afternoon, everyone. My name is Doresa Payton, and I am a Grants Management Specialist in the Discretionary Programs Division in the Office for Victims of Crime, and I serve as the Program Manager for this solicitation. Due to limited time, I will--I will move forward with the presentation. Next slide, please.

The webinar outlined for today will include an OVC Overview and Mission, Solicitation Overview, which would include the funding opportunity focus, eligibility, required documents. We will discuss the application process and tools, and then we will answer questions at the end.

OVC Overview. The mission of OVC is committed to enhancing the nation's capacity to assist crime victims and to providing leadership in changing attitudes, policies, and practices to promote justice and healing for all victims of crime. OVC funding supports victims in tribal communities, state victim compensation and assistance programs, training and technical assistance and information resources, victims of international terrorism and mass violence, federal agencies' provision of victim services, survivors of human trafficking, and demonstration and service projects. Next slide please.

Anticipated OVC funding for 2023 is over $1 billion--I'm sorry, over $1.8 billion. As you can see here from this pie chart, majority of that funding will be allocated to VOCA Compensation and Assistance, and to some of the other programs including human trafficking, tribal, and discretionary programs. Next slide, please.

This OVC funding opportunity discusses eligibility, documents to apply, and the application process and resources. Next slide, please.

Eligibility. Native American tribal governance, federally recognized tribes, Native American tribal organizations, nonprofits having a 501c3 status with the IRS and other [other than] institutions of higher education, nonprofits that do not have a 501c3 status with the IRS other than institution of higher education, private institutions of higher education, and public and state-controlled institutions of higher education. These are the eligible entities that can apply for this funding opportunity. Next slide, please.

The Program Description. OVC seeks proposals to fund a pass-through model in which a trauma-informed, survivor-connected technical assistance provider will provide TA (technical assistance), training, and subgrant funding for at least 10 subgrant sites. The sites will be identified through a request for proposal issued by the TA provider selected under the solicitation, and funding for those sub-grant sites will range from $50,000 to $100,000 each. The selected TA provider will assist and support communities across the country with establishing peer-to-peer support for crime survivors, and provide capacity-building technical assistance for subgrantees. Next slide, please.

Peer Support. The idea of peer support is based on the belief that people who have faced, endured, and overcame adversity can offer useful support, encouragement, hope, and mentorship to others facing similar situations. Some examples include research on peer-led, group-based sexual assault interventions revealed that they have a positive impact on participants' psychological, physical, and interpersonal well-being. Peer support can be independent peer-run programs, self-help and mutual support groups, or services delivered by peers working with issue-based organizations. Peer support has a deep historical foundation in communities of color and other marginalized communities, communities which had to help themselves because of the barriers they faced to accessing systems or receiving adequate attention or care. Next slide, please.

Program Details. The selected TA provider will, number one, undertake the development of a competitive program to provide subgrants to 10 communities. Number two, assist and support communities across the country with establishing or expanding peer-to-peer support for crime survivors. Pass-through funds may be used to support new or existing group, support groups for survivors of all types of crime and to pilot test innovative or demonstrated support mechanisms for victims and survivors of specific types of crime. For an example, homicide, robbery, gun violence, mass violence, carjacking, hate crimes, and et cetera. Number three, include technical assistance and capacity-building support. Number four, demonstrate that they are prepared and able to partner with other organizations. And number five, conduct evaluation activities. Next slide, please.

The purpose of this grant program is to create or expand peer support programs that are culturally and linguistically tailored to meet the unique needs of the target survivor populations, especially for survivors of those crimes for which existing support does not currently meet their needs. Some specific goals include identifying innovative or non-traditional programs, specifically designed for the communities or populations to be served, which may lead to replicable models in other communities and building the knowledge about, and community capacity to provide peer-to-peer support options for victims of all crimes. Next slide, please.

The objectives for this funding opportunity include providing technical assistance, training, and capacity building to support a minimum of 10 community sites that will create or expand peer-to-peer support programs to meet the individual needs of victims and survivors of crimes and to conduct program evaluation activities to improve implementation and understand the potential impact of peer-to-peer support for victims and survivors of crime. Next slide, please.

Some of the deliverables include a competitive--a competitive subgrant program to include a minimum of 10 community sites via widely available request for proposals, also known as RFPs. Technical assistance and training to subgrant entities to build capacity in using federal funds and aid in establishing/expanding trauma-informed peer-to-peer survivor support programs to provide greater access to or enhance the quality of assistance and services to more victims of crime. A contractual agreement with an individual or an entity to provide program evaluation activities. And a final report that documents the development strategy, the implementation process, and the impact/results/outcome of the program. These are the deliverables for the successful applicant for this particular program or solicitation. Next slide, please.

OJP Priority Areas. Priority Consideration Supporting the Executive Order 13985, Advancing Racial Equity and Support for Underserved Communities Through the Federal Government. Excuse me. Applications that include projects that will promote racial equity and the removal of barriers to access and opportunity for communities that have been historically underserved, marginalized, and adversely affected by inequality. Applicants that demonstrate that their capabilities and competencies for implementing their proposed projects are enhanced because the applicant, or at least one proposed subrecipient that will receive at least 40% of the requested award funding as demonstrated in the budget web-based form, identifies as a culturally specific organization. Just note that receiving priority consideration for one or more priority areas does not guarantee an award. So, for additional information, please refer to the solicitation on pages nine and ten. Next slide, please.

Federal Award Information. The maximum number of awards OVC expects to make from this solicitation is one award to a TA provider. The maximum dollar amount for that one award is going to be $2 million, so the total amount to be awarded under this solicitation is for $2 million. The period of performance start date for this grant will be October the 1st of this year, and the duration of this grant is three years. Next slide, please.

Types of Awards. This award will be made as a cooperative agreement, which means substantial involvement between the awarding agency, which will be OVC, and the recipient, which will be the TA provider during the performance period. The awarding agency, meaning OVC, closely participates in the performance of the program. Next slide, please.

Application and Submission Information. Next slide. The timeline for this solicitation. The Grants.gov timeline is April the 18th of this year at 11:59 PM Eastern Time. The JustGrants deadline is April the 25th, 2023, at 8:59 PM Eastern Time. DOJ expects to award grants no later than September the 30th of this year. And as previously mentioned, all projects--this particular project start date will be October the 1st of 2023. Next slide, please.

Applications MUST Include. If your application does not include these three critical elements, your application will not move forward to peer review: the proposed abstract, a proposed narrative, and the budget web-based form, which should include the budget details and the budget narrative. More information will be discussed on the following slides. Next slide, please.

The Proposal Abstract is one of the first critical elements. It must be a clear and simple summary statement about your proposal. The statement should be no more than 400 words and should include the purpose of the project, the primary activities, expected outcomes, the service area, and intended beneficiaries and subrecipients. This will be completed in the JustGrants web-based form. Next slide, please.

The Proposal Narrative Format. The proposal narrative must be double spaced, use a standard 12-point font of your choice as long as it's 12-point font, have no less than one-inch margins, not exceed 25 pages, and it must be submitted as an attachment in JustGrants. Next slide, please.

The Proposal Narrative Format. The following sections are part of the proposal narrative: statement of the problem or description of the issue, the project design and implementation, the capabilities and competencies of your organization and your staff, and your plan for collecting the data required for the solicitation's performance measures. Next slide, please.

The Proposal Narrative: Description of the Issue or the Statement of the Problem. It must describe why this project/these proposed activities are necessary and/or address a need and include supporting information. Define the nature and scope of the problem to be addressed, including relevant equity considerations for underserved communities. This description should include any available data, can use community data, Census data, client data to support your information that is verifiable and/or contained in official records, and use demographic data to describe and identify the populations that will be served. It should also identify gaps in available data that it intends to address through the needs assessment process. It must also identify relevant underserved communities in their geographic area, if any. You can use, again, community data, Census data, and client data to support. Next slide, please.

Proposal Narrative: The Project Design and Implementation. This section should include the goals, the objectives, and the activities that are aligned with the solicitation. Ensure that you're brief, concise, and clear. Make sure the information is consistent throughout your proposal. Create solid goals and measurable objectives. The object--the objective should be SMART: Specific, Measurable, Attainable, Realistic, and Time Bound. Focus on the future and set realistic timeline to complete the project. Address Priority Area 1A considerations if it applies. Next slide, please.

Proposal Narrative: The Capabilities and Competencies. Describe the capabilities and competencies to accomplish the project's goals and the objectives. Submit resumes for any key personnel in an organizational chart. Describe the qualifications, roles, and responsibilities of any new positions that will be created to staff the proposed project. If the project includes subawards to project partners, include the name of the individual responsible for monitoring that subaward and the qualifications of the proposed partner(s) to carry out proposed activities. Next slide, please.

Proposed Narrative. This is still the capabilities and competencies section that we're discussing. Describe the staffing plan for the project, including the primary point of contact. Describe previous or current experience providing services to survivors and/or assessing the service needs of a population. Applicants may specialize in one area of victimization or several as long as they can demonstrate that they have the necessary subject matter expertise, which may require having additional partners, consultants, or subrecipients. Describe organizational--describe organization experience and capacity relating--related to managing federal grants if there are any. And address Priority Area 1B considerations in this section. Next slide, please.

Proposal Narrative: Plan for Collecting Data. This section must include the following information. Describe the process for measuring project performance. Identify who will collect the data, who is responsible for performance measures, and how the information will be used to guide and evaluate the project's impact. Describe the process to accurately report data. Next slide, please.

The Budget Web-Based Form includes a worksheet and a budget narrative. You must use the JustGrants web-based format. The personnel costs should relate to the key personnel for the project. The budget should include adequate funding to fully implement the project, broken out by year, reflecting the thirty-six months or three years. The budget should be mathematically sound and correspond with information described in the proposal narrative and aligned with the project design. And address Priority 1B considerations, if applicable. Next slide, please.

Create a SMART Budget. Be specific when listing all of your expenses. Under the-- under the computation column of the budget, make sure your costs are measurable. Ensure that your budget items are attainable. If you put your timeline next to your budget, make sure each item is accounted for, then your budget should be relevant. Make sure your budget is time-bound and broken down year by year or month by month. Create a SMART budget. Next slide, please.

Additional Documents to Apply. As you will see, as you review the solicitation and there's various hyperlinks embedded in the solicitation, including the DOJ Application Submission Checklist, and also the Application Attachments, the Application Submission and Award Attachments. Next slide, please.

Hallmarks of an Outstanding Application. What is considered an outstanding application? What we have found is when they use simple and concise language, ensuring the information is presentable and organized, adding tables, graphs, staff photos, and other images when possible while being mindful of the grant guidelines, meaning the page limit. Be realistic about how you will achieve the goals. Get feedback from those who may run the project. Make sure the proposal is consistent with the solicitation. Check, recheck, and check again, the budget grant requirements, references, and other grant details. Next slide, please.

Common cite--Common Reasons Cited for Weak Application. It was too ambitious or lacks focus. The applicant lacks appropriate expertise to carry out the proposed project. There was no evidence of feasibility. Do not assume reviewers are familiar with the project as you are. Poor writing and a lot of errors. Next slide, please.

The Application Process. Next slide. The Application Submission Overview. This is very important. Applicants have two application submission deadlines. As you may recall on the previous slide, we included the deadlines for submission of your application. So you must first submit in Grants.gov and then in JustGrants. It's okay to enter preliminary budget or programmatic data in Grants.gov and update later in JustGrants, but you must get it started by the due date and submit the bio before the due dates. A JustGrants submission should include all items as defined in the solicitation. Next slide, please.

The Important Dates. Here are the dates again. Part one, as you can see, you must submit the 424 and the Standard Form-LLL at Grants.gov by April 18th. Part two of the application. The full application must be submitted by April the 25th at 8:59 PM Eastern time. Please not only pay attention to the dates, but the timeframe as well. If your application is not received by April the 25th at 8:59 PM Eastern time, it will not be considered for consideration for this funding opportunity. Next slide, please.

Web-Based Forms for Submission in JustGrants. There are certain web-based forms that must be submitted directly into the system and that's in JustGrants. The proposal abstract, the solicitation-specific data submitted with the application, the goals, the objectives, the deliverables, and timelines, the budget web-based form, the Application Disclosure of Duplication Cost Items. Please pay attention to the required sections in JustGrants. If a section is required and presents you with the web-based entries, you cannot upload a document instead, you must use the format required in the application. There are no exceptions. Next slide, please.

What to Expect After Submitting an Application. The entity, meaning the organization, will be notified that they have received an award when all applications for the solicitation have been reviewed before September 30th. The system will notify the Entity Administrator and the Authorized Representative when the deadline for application has changed, the Application Submitter, the Entity Administrator, and the Authorized Representative when the application is received in JustGrants from Grants.gov, the Entity Administrator when the award notification has been sent. The entity should check the system on a regular basis so that any upcoming deadlines for submitting applications and documentations are addressed in a timely manner. Next slide, please.

Information About OVC. If you have any questions about OVC, please log on to the OVC website. Next slide, please.

The DOJ Grants Financial Guide. It's extremely important, especially if you are the successful applicant that's awarded this grant, and if you are an existing grantee then you are well aware of the DOJ Grants Financial Guide. It's your guide that you will use throughout the duration of this grant. Next slide, please.

The DO--the OJP Grant Application Resource Guide. This is a very helpful guide for you as well to assist you with the completion of your application. So please refer to it and use it accordingly. Next slide, please.

The Information on the Grant Measurement Reporting. If you are a successful applicant, you will learn a lot more about the reporting requirements for this solicitation. And also in the solicitation, it actually lists some of the reporting requirements for this solicitation. Next slide, please.

Information on SAM.gov. As you know, this is your first stop before applying for any federal grants. So please make sure that you're familiar with SAM.gov; if you aren't you won't be able to move forward with the submission of the application, submission of the proposal. Next slide, please.

Information on Grants.gov. Many of you became aware of this solicitation from this website. So continue to utilize it for future funding opportunities. Next website--next slide, please.

The JustGrants Training Resources. There's a number of resources on the JustGrants website for you to use if needed, if you encounter any technical issues in JustGrants. So please use it and refer to it accordingly. Next slide, please.

JustGrants also have office hours to assist you with the application. As you can see, every Wednesday from 2:30 to 4:00 PM on the dates specified here, you can click on the link to register for a session to ask questions and to get any assistance that you need with preparing to apply, completing the abbreviated application in Grants.gov, any entity onboarding or JustGrants access, if you encounter any technical issues, they will be there to assist you. You can ask those questions then. The JustGrants roles and responsibility, and assigning roles to applications, completing them, reviewing them, certifying them, and submitting the JustGrants application, and attending questions about application submissions, so if you have any questions, please attend one of the sessions. Next slide, please.

Free Training and Technical Assistance. If you have any needs, we have OVC TTAC that you can reach out to for any training and technical assistance needs. Next slide, please.

Information on OJP Resources. If you have any questions and you need to reach out to the National Criminal Justice Reference Service, you can always click on the website to obtain additional information. Next slide, please.

How to Prepare for Solicitation Season. We are in solicitation season. Review OVC's previously held webinars is one way. It's—there are three parts to that process of getting ready to apply, considerations when building your OVC budget, and preparing your proposal and what to expect next. Find OVC's current funding opportunities on its website and on Grants.gov. Sign up for news from OVC to stay up-to-date with the webinars and schedule. And visit the DOJ program plan for other funding opportunities. Next slide, please.

Information--Contact Information. As we previously discussed SAM.gov is your first reference point. You need to register with SAM.gov. In Grants.gov we spoke in-depth about Grants.gov with future funding opportunities posted and there's contact information for both. Next slide please.

Here's a continuation of Important Contact Information for you, the JustGrants system. There is technical assistance available for you there. That's their contact information and the OJP Response Center, if you have any questions throughout this process, you can always reach out to them and they will assist you. Next slide, please.

Here is some information about Go Social with OVC is we have Facebook, Instagram, and YouTube, and the relevant hyperlinks are associated with each on this slide. Next slide, please.

Okay. Now, let's--we're going to turn it back over to Daryl for any questions that you may have and I'll provide a response or we may have to take note of what your question was and follow-up with you at a later time. But I believe we're now ready for questions, Daryl, if there's no slide after this slide.

DARYL FOX: Yes, indeed. Thank you so much, Dorena. Just a reminder to everybody on today's webinar, the PowerPoint slides, transcript, and recording will be posted to the OVC website. You'll go ahead and receive an email on those items and where to access those with the email you registered with today. If you have a question, please put that in the Q&A box sent to all panelists, and we'll be happy to queue it up and get to it today with the time remaining.

So the first one is, "if applicants choose the racial equity priority to partner with a culturally specific organization, what is the role of that organization? Would it be TA or Peer Support Service Delivery?"

DORENA PAYTON: It can be a combination of both. It just depends on the culturally specific organization, Memorandum of Agreement that you established with them and what they—and what you guys have agreed upon, what their role and responsibilities will be. Yes, a portion of the 40% can go to that culturally specific organization, as you see in the solicitation it's required that if you identify an organization as being a culturally specific organization and partner you are applying for priority consideration, 40% of the funding must go to them.

DARYL FOX: “Must applicants have or develop a peer support curriculum?”

DORESA PAYTON: I’m not really sure if I understand that question clearly. It’s a very simple question, but I’m not really sure I understand it clearly. The TA provider’s role or responsibility will be to put out a request for proposal, so that they can fund the subgrantees or the subsites and so it will be a competitive process that the TA provider establishes. Like we have this solicitation and we have established for this particular grant award. The TA provider will establish something very similar and they will lay out what all of the requirements are, which would include the eligibility, the goals and objectives, and all of the details that will be relevant for the successful subgrantee to obtain that subgrant award.

DARYL FOX: “Is there standardization on the monitoring process for subgrantees? Is there an example what that would look like?”

DORESA PAYTON: It’s actually a pretty comprehensive process. We do expect you to monitor them from a programmatic, administrative, and a financial standpoint. As we do with our grantees, they will have to submit performance reports to you and you in turn as the TA provider support them—submit them to OVC. They will report to you, and you will report to OVC. Is it a standard process? We definitely focus on administrative, financial, and programmatic monitoring, so that’s what that agreement would look like.

DARYL FOX: Then similarly, “is there specific support OVC will provide to the TA grantee?”

DORESA PAYTON: Absolutely. As we stated here, doing this pre-application webinar, OVC has a wide range of various support services available to the TA provider. I’m more than likely will be serving as the Program Manager for that TA provider for this particular solicitation, but absolutely support will be provided.

DARYL FOX: And “is the funding replicable or is it just 36-months only...”

DORESA PAYTON: This grant...

DARYL FOX: “for the duration of funds?”

DORESA PAYTON: This grant is thirty-six months or a three-year grant opportunity.

DARYL FOX: And “may the prime grantee be both the TA and the—and the evaluator or is the evaluator an external entity sub?”

DORESA PAYTON: Most times it is an—it is an external entity that you have established a partnership with to specifically provide evaluation services under the grant. I have also seen that if you a larger organization, you may have an evaluation division or department within your organization and they may take on that responsibility, so there's options there, but you definitely will have to have this program evaluated.

DARYL FOX: “Is there guidance on how much of the award amount can be used for incurred costs to implement the subgrant program?”

DORESA PAYTON: As we, this—if I'm answering the question correctly, $50,000 to $100,000 will be allocated for each of the subgrantees. We say a minimum of—minimum of 10, some organizations or TA providers might be a lot more ambitious and want to, you know, fund 11 or 12, so of course, they might receive less funding. But that layout will be determined by the TA provider. We provide the TA provider with the money. They do exactly what's stated in the solicitation in terms and conditions of the award, and they establish how that process will look. So currently as it states in the solicitation between $50,000 and $100,000 will be allocated to the subgrantees for those subawards.

DARYL FOX: Somebody asked about a CU—a Certificate of Attendance for today. We don't offer those. However, post-meeting, you will receive an automatic email from Webex thanking you for your participation. If you want to use that as your proof of attendance today, you can do so. And for the person who just—Janet from Western Massachusetts dealing with the storm regaining power. I'll just remind everybody that this recording along with the PowerPoint transcript will be posted to the OVC website. So anything you did miss, you'll be able to go back and review. Stay safe out there.

“Regarding the minimum of 10 subgrantees, can they be all in the same geographical area or do they need to be in 10 different locations?”

DORESA PAYTON: That will be determined by the TA provider.

DARYL FOX: That seems to be the end of the questions in the queue at this time. We still have some more time today. So if you do have a question, put that in the Q&A.

“Can subgrantees be individual survivors, businesses--or businesses, or must they be non-profit entities?”

DORESA PAYTON: That will also be determined by the TA provider if we're talking about the subgrantees. Because it's a competitive process, so when we select the TA provider for this funding opportunity, the TA provider of course will have to go through the process within OVC to get their budget approved and to get up and running to actually implement the grant. But that is a deliverable under the grant that they post a request for proposal. So it will be competitive and they will post it out to the public. They will determine the eligibility. They will determine all of the information that we share with you today in terms of how much they're planning, they--we know the range, but we give that TA provider that flexibility to submit--to post their request for proposal as they see most appropriate for the organizations that they have had, you know, relationships with. But it's competitive. So they still have to apply for it, but they are going to--obviously have some type of connection within their community. So that's going to be determined by the TA provider in collaboration with OVC.

DARYL FOX: And kind of piggybacking off of that, Doreesa. "If the--if the non-profit is newly created or just started providing services, can they still be eligible? Is there any time frame of having the services available?"

DORESA PAYTON: It goes back to the eligibility for this solicitation--are we talking about the TA provider, Daryl, or are they talking about the subgrantees?

DARYL FOX: It's mentioned that, "What if the non-profit?" Well, and they followed it up with both really.

DORESA PAYTON: In terms of the TA provider, refer back to the solicitation. For the eligibility requirements, in terms of who is eligible to apply for this funding opportunity. In this--thank you very much, Daryl. These are the eligible entities for this funding opportunity in terms of the TA provider who's eligible to apply for this funding opportunity. But in terms of the eligibility for the subgrantees that will be determined by the selected TA provider.

DARYL FOX: That seems to be the end of the questions in the queue at this time. I also want to mention, too, for everybody on today's webinar that if we--once we do end, if a question comes up regarding the requirements within the solicitation, you can contact the OJP Response Center listed here, 880-851-3420 or grants@ncjrs.gov. They'll be able to answer those questions for you in consultation with OVC and the Program Manager.

DORESA PAYTON: I believe there was one additional question that popped up, Daryl, am I correct?

DARYL FOX: Yup. Just now. "For the evaluation component, do all 10 funded programs need to be part of the evaluation?"

DORESA PAYTON: Absolutely. The TA provider is the grantee and their subawardee, through the competitive process, subawards to these various organizations. So we would like to know how those programs are progressing, what the challenges are, with some best practices. So yes, it will be a part of that process.

DARYL FOX: Then clarify the culturally specific portion. They must receive 40% of the grant, not just the $50,000 to $100,000, is that correct?

DORESA PAYTON: Yes. That's correct. And a little bit more details about the priority consideration is included on pages--I believe it starts on page nine, so page nine and ten. If you review those pages, it talks a little bit more about the priority consideration and the 40% on the requested award funding must be allocated to that culturally specific organization if you think that they will be included in the application.

DARYL FOX: "For the target populations, is there a priority for specific types of crime victims?"

DORESA PAYTON: No. OVC provides services to all victims of crime.

DARYL FOX: "Is peer-to-peer meaning survivor-to-survivor, or also provider-to-provider support?"

DORESA PAYTON: Either/or. It's either/or.

DARYL FOX: "If you already have a grant funded project from OVC, will that make you ineligible for this grant?"

DORESA PAYTON: No, it doesn't. As long as you meet the eligibility requirements and submit the required critical elements as we discussed, the web-based budget, the program narrative, and the abstract, you will at least be considered, but it's a competitive process.

DARYL FOX: And then, Doresa, I don't know if you see the next question.

DORESA PAYTON: I do from Rebecca. I'm not exactly sure what she means by that. I'm going to refer her back to the eligibility requirements. What is solicitation? That's on page one and two. Oh, here--and also here on this slide.

DARYL FOX: Okay. That seems to be the end of the questions in queue at this time. Just hang on a few more moments. Okay, with that, Doresa, is there anything in closing you wanted to mention?

DORESA PAYTON: Thank--I want to thank--do we get another question that came in? Oh, no. That's from Tammy. Okay. I didn't want to miss any questions. I want to thank everyone for participating today in the pre-application webinar for the Peer-to-Peer Support for Survivors of Crime solicitation. And I look forward to receiving your application and considering you for this funding opportunity. Of course, it's going to be peer reviewed. I'm not the selecting official, but I just look forward to receiving the applications for this program. Thank you very much and have a nice day.

DARYL FOX: Wonderful. So on behalf of the Office for Victims of Crime and our panelists, we want to thank you for joining today's webinar. This will end today's presentation.
