Describe any program policies changed during the reporting period.
The Alabama Department of Economic and Community Affairs' Law Enforcement and Traffic Safety Division did not have any notable program policy changes relating to the administration of VOCA Victim Assistance grant funds.
Describe any earned media coverage events/episodes during the reporting period.
The Alabama Department of Economic and Community Affairs' Law Enforcement and Traffic Safety Division did not have any notable earned media coverage during the reporting period. Any earned media has been derived through the Governor's announcement of grant awards to local service providers. These announcements are regularly published through, local and state, media sources.
Describe any coordinated responses/services for assisting crime victims during the reporting period.
The Alabama Department of Economic and Community Affairs' Law Enforcement and Traffic Safety Division does not provide direct response or services to crime victims. If our staff is contacted by a crime victim, we refer them to the appropriate resources based on the information available.
Please discuss the major issues in your state that either assist or prevent victims from receiving assistance during the reporting period.
The most notable issue that prevented victims from receiving services was the reduction in funding made through VOCA's Victim Assistance Program. Overall funding continues to drop, forcing victim assistance programs to alter their program delivery. For some programs that meant a reduction or a loss of staff, for others it meant the closure of offices, providing less coverage to their service area, or a reduction in the types of available services. Regardless of programs' changes, they were forced to make decisions that negatively affected their capacity to provide services. Undoubtedly, the reduction in VOCA Victim Assistance funding is forcing areas of the state and victims to go without services.
Please describe ways that your agency promoted the coordination of public and private efforts within the community to help crime victims during the reporting period.
The Alabama Department of Economic and Community Affairs' Law Enforcement and Traffic Safety Division requires subrecipients to submit Memorandums of Understanding (MOU) to demonstrate coordination among local communities in providing services to crime victims. These MOUs are usually between subrecipients and one or more local agencies outlining the efforts used to coordinate and improve the services provided in that community. Within the MOU, each participating agency describes its organization and the services it will provide for each other. These MOUs are a way to show how all the agencies benefit each agency's overall mission and how when combined they can better serve victims in the area. MOUs allow us to see the collaborative efforts that take place at the local level with agencies that provide services to crime victims. In addition to requiring the applicant to maintain MOUs with other agencies, we encourage agencies to allocate project funding to establish and strengthen community responses to victims of crime.
Please describe any notable activities at the grantee level during the reporting period that improved delivery of victim services.
The Alabama Department of Economic and Community Affairs' Law Enforcement and Traffic Safety Division provides funds for victim services programs to provide essential services to crime victims. LETS does not conduct activities, other than making subgrants, that directly impact the delivery of services to victims of crime.
Please discuss each priority (i.e., child abuse, domestic assault, sexual assault, and underserved) in which VOCA funds have been used to assist crime victims during the reporting period
The Alabama Department of Economic and Community Affairs' Law Enforcement and Traffic Safety Division (LETS) administered VOCA Victim Assistance funds to 88 projects during the 2022-2023 grant period. The projects range from treating child victims, victims of domestic violence, victims of sexual assault, and many other types of victims who are typically overlooked and underserved. In addressing the child abuse priority area, LETS funds child advocacy centers that work with physically and sexually abused children or victims who are assaulted as children as they overcome physical, emotional, and sexual abuse. A few of the services that subrecipients provide to victims are therapy, forensic interviews, medical exams, court assistance, relocation, and family counseling. In addressing the domestic assault priority area, LETS awards funds to domestic violence agencies and shelters that provide services to domestic assault victims. The majority of VOCA Victim Assistance funding, for this priority area, goes towards domestic violence shelters. The shelters work with men and women who are victims of domestic violence or in dangerous relationships. Services for domestic assault victims include but are not limited to emergency shelter, transitional housing, counseling, safety planning, support groups, advocacy, legal assistance, crisis response, crisis hotline services, and referrals. In addressing the sexual assault priority area, LETS awards funds to sexual assault programs that work with victims who have been affected by sexual abuse. Subrecipients provide several services such as forensic exams, medical assistance, support groups, counseling, advocacy, and educational outreach. In addressing the underserved priority area, LETS awarded funds to a variety of underserved and special projects. One project is Mothers Against Drunk Driving (MADD). MADD is an organization that works with victims who have been affected by under-the-influence drivers. They work to provide services to these victims such as advocacy, helping with compensation forms, and assisting them in court hearings. VOCAL and Wiregrass Angel House are VOCA Victim Assistance funded projects that work with family members of homicide victims. Services provided to these types of victims include crime scene clean up, shelter before court hearings, accompaniment during court hearings, and counseling. The Hispanic Interest Coalition of Alabama and AshaKiran are organizations that focus on assisting crime victims of different nationalities, specifically Hispanic victims, and East Asian victims, respectively. A few of the services these organizations provide include medical assistance, advocacy, outreach, interpretation services, emergency shelter, immigration services, and other support. The State Department of Human Resources provides services to elder abuse victims by providing short-term supervision and out-of-home placements for victims. We fund two agencies to specifically serve victims of human trafficking. These agencies can provide emergency shelter, counseling, safety planning, support groups, advocacy, legal assistance, crisis response, crisis hotline services, and referrals.
Please briefly describe efforts taken to serve Victims of Federal crime during the reporting period.
The Alabama Department of Economic and Community Affairs' Law Enforcement and Traffic Safety Division requires subrecipients to provide services to victims of federal crimes on the same basis as victims of state/local crimes. Several agencies continue to coordinate and operate with federal organizations to offer their facilities and services to federal crime victims. Several subrecipients are members of local Human Trafficking Task Forces and coordinate with local military bases to provide services. Agencies have aided cases involving electronic solicitations, child pornography, and other internet crimes. Subrecipients continue to work with federal law enforcement and attorney's offices to provide sensitivity training and collaborative efforts to support victims of federal crimes.
Please identify any emerging issues or notable trends affecting crime victim services in your state during the reporting period.

Office for Victims of Crime - Performance Measurement Tool (PMT)

The biggest issue affecting services to crime victims is the reduction in VOCA Victim Assistance funding. Overall funding for programs was reduced by 10% during the period. With estimates showing we will need to cut programs again and again each year until our funds are depleted. This year is the fifth consecutive year of cuts to victim service providers. The amount of funding some agencies received this year is less than the amount they received before the increase in VOCA funding back in 2015. Without a doubt, the biggest issue affecting the ability to serve crime victims is the amount of funding available to provide services. The increase in VOCA funding back in 2015 greatly increased the capacity to provide services but over the last several years the reduction in VOCA funding has seen most of that capacity greatly reduced. The passage of the VOCA Fix signified a possible long-term fix for crime victim services. However, without an immediate increase in VOCA Victim Assistance funding to states, programs will have to continue to reduce the services that are greatly needed.

Please briefly outline any staffing retention issues that your victim assistance program has and why these issues may occur during the reporting period.

The Alabama Department of Economic and Community Affairs' Law Enforcement and Traffic Safety Division did experience the loss of two program supervisors during the reporting period. The loss and subsequent vacancy of two of our program supervisors did cause delays in the administration of the victim assistance program. These delays impacted the processing of requests for funds, and processing of subaward modifications, and contributed to delays in on-site monitoring. These vacancies coupled with delays in transitioning to an online grants management system have delayed our ability to start our new monitoring schedule. We are hoping that these supervisor positions will be filled soon, and we can improve our ability to provide effective grant administration while working to complete our monitoring plan.

Please explain your state process to publicize its victim assistance funding for services to victims of crime during the reporting period.

The Alabama Department of Economic and Community Affairs' Law Enforcement and Traffic Safety Division issues requests for proposals to agencies seeking to provide services to victims of crime. We directly target our solicitations to interested parties as well as provide this information on our public website. ADECA encourages subrecipients to reach out to other local agencies that serve crime victims about the availability of VOCA funding.

Please explain how your state is able to direct funding to new/underserved populations during the reporting period.

The Alabama Department of Economic and Community Affairs' Law Enforcement and Traffic Safety Division attempts to attract new and unique organizations from across the State and provide them with information on the background and availability of VOCA Victim Assistance funding. We aim to support agencies that serve populations that have not been previously funded. Unfortunately, due to the reductions in VOCA funding, we were unable to fund new organizations during the reporting period. Nonetheless, we continue to fund several culturally specific agencies whose mission is dedicated to serving marginalized populations. Several victim service programs have made changes to their programs in effort to improve service delivery to marginalized populations.

Please explain how your program is able to respond to gaps in services during the reporting period.

The Alabama Department of Economic and Community Affairs' Law Enforcement and Traffic Safety Division believes in Local leadership with State partnership. This means we entrust our subrecipients and their communities to identify gaps in services at the local level. Organizations typically work with multi-disciplinary teams, which include the local Department of Human Resources, Law Enforcement Offices, other service providers, other stakeholders, and their clients to identify the pressing needs of crime victims in their service areas. Through this funding, agencies can respond to their self-identified, local needs to best meet the needs of crime victims in their area. For example, agencies have secured contracts for interpreting services, expanded counseling programs, utilized transportation assistance to get clients the aid they need, and attempted to start programs in cooperation with other local stakeholders.

Please list and explain any outcome measure(s) that are reported to the governor, legislature, or other state entity during the reporting period.

The Alabama Department of Economic and Community Affairs' Law Enforcement and Traffic Safety Division reports quarterly the number of victims served to a Legislative Oversight Committee.
